Hony. Secretary'

Bangabasi College Students Association.

It is a piece of happy news for our readers, that our students have been able to reorganise the Students' Association. There was a bitter need for it and we congratulate our 3rd year friends who took the lead in forming such an association.

A meeting of the students was called on the 18th January last with Prof. N. C. Bannerji in the chair. Prof. J. N. Chakravarti explained the object of the meeting, namely, to consider the possibility of reviving the Students' Association that once did much useful work. The main object of the old Association was to create a sense of fellow-feeling and closer intimacy between the students through debates and discussions, and common enjoyments and common work. It held periodical meetings amidst cheerful entertainments, and socials where students could meet and enjoy the company of their friends.

The Association had moreover taken up two very useful works; one was a Students' Aid Fund, which was raised by subscriptions from the students, and whose object was to render pecuniary help to deserving fellow-students. The other was a Night-School, organised and conducted by students, where working men of the locality were taught to read and write.
